

Product Testing

Quality Assured

We have strict quality standards at NEO and will not allow any systems or products to leave our building without having been put through its paces in testing for integration, functionality and reliability.

All product testing and final assembly is also catered for in-house, while our packing and dispatch departments ensure your product reaches its destination safe and sound.

We can either test to your specification or work with you in developing a specification that meets your product requirements. Each tested PCB is given a unique identification number ensuring full traceability once it has entered the field.
